

Wanted: Funky MBA

To lead Build-It-Yourself in a rapid growth phase

Build-It-Yourself has developed a playful, online art and engineering program driven by technology-in-education research at MIT.

Our mission is to inspire and guide kids ages 8-18, the next generation of builders and leaders, to use technology creatively and collaboratively in a unique global laboratory. Think like an artist. Build like an engineer. We aim to do this in a metaverse environment

We seek a leader who is passionate about education and entrepreneurship to lead Build-It-Yourself in a rapid growth phase.

Responsibilities include:

1. Research, pitch, and close corporate distribution partnerships.
2. Coordinate the development of regional territories.
3. Evolve social media presence.
4. Secure and manage investment capital. We anticipate raising our 3rd round of funding after we close a corporate distribution partnership.

Qualities we seek in a business developer include:

1. Interest in computer games, art, and engineering
2. Ability to efficiently close large distribution deals
3. Experience with social media tools and viral marketing programs
4. Entrepreneurial mindset
5. Playful spirit

Compensation includes three components:

1. Below market value base salary
2. Bonus that equates to more than market value salary if short-term goals are met
3. Equity that could put a Maserati in your garage or otherwise make a dent in the world

Contact:

John Galinato / 617-875-1960 / john@build-it-yourself.com